Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1400 on Saturday 18 Sep 2021

UK Outlook for Thursday 23 Sep 2021 to Saturday 2 Oct 2021:
Thursday and Friday look to be widely unsettled, with much of the UK receiving showers or longer spells of rain, as well as windy conditions. Northwestern areas will likely see the heaviest rain and coastal gales. From the weekend onwards, a very general northwest to southeast split to our weather is likely to develop. The northwest is expected to see the most of any unsettled conditions: outbreaks of rain, possibly heavy at times, and strong winds, possibly coastal gales. Drier and sunnier weather looks more likely across the southeast, though unsettled weather in the northwest could still spread here at times. Temperatures generally near or slightly below average, but may slightly rise towards the end of this period.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.